OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

BYE 2921-66

The Honorable Charles L. Schultze
Director, Bureau of the Budget
Washington, D. C. 20503

Dear Charlie:

Following our 12 December meeting and after examination of the draft memorandum to the President which you handed me on 16 December, I asked my staff to review the problems involved in making the transition from the A-12 to the SR-71. In the process of this review, which is still in progress, new information of considerable significance has been brought to my attention. In particular, this involved data pertaining to SR-71 altitude and range performance which, when compared to the proven capability of the A-12, is of real concern to me in attempting to relate the performance of the SR-71 to my missions. In addition, as you know, I have misgivings about the electronic warfare systems situation. In view of the above, I am reconsidering my previous position and feel that I need additional time to sort out and further verify the facts and examine in detail comparative mission performance characteristics of the two aircraft.

I appreciate the urgency in getting this problem resolved but I am impelled to reassure myself on all aspects of the matter before firming my views. I, therefore, propose that we meet after 1 January to review the pertinent facts and request you not forward a memorandum to the President until after our meeting.

Sincerely,

/s/ Richard Helms
